Dear Sgt. Williams,

Thank you for coming in to talk to us about your job. I learned a lot about how bad drugs are. I also learned about how to say no in a firm way. A lesson that I really enjoyed was the perception and reality one. The optical illusions that you showed us were really cool. I also enjoyed doing skits and wearing the fatal-vision goggles.

I would really enjoy doing your job. I love to talk and help out kids. It must be cool telling kids about drugs and how bad they are. I would want to do that to get kids to... well... stay on track. You may be the one who saves a future doctor or actor from drugs. Thanks again for taking the time to talk to us.

Dear Sgt Williams,

Thank you so much for doing the Stay on Track program with us. I really did learn a lot. I will take all of the things you showed us with me in life. This is a very valuable lesson to learn. Most people don't have a program like this. I really appreciate what you do.

We really need more people like you in the world. Some people don't care about kids. Now a days, and the ones who do, don't want to teach it. I really admire you and your will to keep kids off drugs and alcohol. Now that you have been to our class, a lot of kids will keep off, or not do drugs. I know I will never go into drugs. Thank you so much for your support!

Dear Sgt. Williams,

Thank you for coming to our school and speaking to us. I learned so much about drugs and alcohol over this time. I learned that not as many people my age are doing drugs as I thought. I also learned that there are different ways to respond to someone. Some ways work well in some situations while others don't. It just depends on your voice, tone and the scenario.

The information you gave me I can now share with others. I can tell people the dangers of drug and alcohol use. I can also tell them about the difference between reality and perception. I am able to share more knowledge with my peers. I appreciate you taking the time to talk to us. I hope you are able to teach more people.

Dear Sgt. Williams,

Thank you so much for coming in all year to talk to us. We really appreciate you taking your time to come in. I really had a lot of fun with this program. I learned a lot from this program. I wish that we could continue to do this until the end of the year. I also think that you are a fun person.

I learned a lot about alcohol and drugs. I also learned the reality of underage drinking. I also learned that if you set your mind on a goal and really stick to it you will achieve that goal. I learned some responses to refuse to do drugs or drink alcohol. I also learned what television ads are really trying to say.
